EVERY Republican in the city should remember the organization of the Republican club at the Court House Tuesday evening at seven o'clock and make it a point to be in attendance. Such an organization has a great opportunity for good work the coming campaign and every loyal member of the party should belong to it.

THE POLITICIAN.

The most encouraging reports are being received from all sections of the country by the Republican Congressional Campaign committee. Some of these reports, especially from states where for a time it looked as though the silver craze would overwhelm the common sense of the people, show that a strong reaction has already set in and that upon second thought many republicans who conscientiously believe in the free coinage of silver have concluded that they cannot afford to sacrifice everything else they believe in for the sake of one thing which argument has convinced them would be at best but a doubtful experiment when attempted by this government alone; consequently they will support McKinley and Hobart whose administration they know will not be experimental, but will be conducted along the true and tried lines which have made other republican administrations successful and the country prosperous.
Everywhere republicans are preaching the doctrine of common sense, and thousands of old-time republicans who have been led astray by glittering promises are returning to the fold.

Every day it becomes more apparent that republicans must win their fight without depending upon the aid of kicking democrats, who by talking as though they might vote for McKinley and Hobart are merely seeking to make the republicans so overconfident that they will not work as hard as they ought. The number of gold democrats who will vote the republican ticket are not likely to be numerous enough to be a factor in the election, and many of those who now say they will do so will wind up by voting for Bryan.
Why, Mr. Cleveland, the head and front of the gold democrats, cannot even keep his cabinet in line. Hoke Smith is the only member who has yet openly come out for Bryan, but there are excellent reasons for the belief that at least four members of the cabinet will vote for Bryan, and a general break-up of the cabinet in the near future will not be surprising.

It having been stated by officials of the Knights of Labor that the labor organizations of the country were practically solid for Bryan and free silver, Mr. George W. Meyer, of Minneapolis, Minn., President of the Journeymen Stone Cutters Association of North America, who has been in Washington on business, was asked for his opinion.
He said: "The labor men in Minnesota will not make money an issue in this campaign. While there are many who would like to see the free coinage of silver become a law, yet they will not vote for it. They will vote for protection. I found this same sentiment in Wisconsin, Iowa, and the two Dakotas.
While, of course, in the Dakotas the silver feeling is strong, protection will carry the states. In Minnesota labor is a strong factor in politics, having only recently shown its strength by nominating Loren Fletcher for a third term in Congress, although he is opposed to the free coinage of silver without international agreement, and his rival for the nomination was a pronounced silver man. Labor men will not support McKinley because they love him, but because of the principle he has always advocated.

The republican party's platform and principles is happily condensed in the following short extract from a recent speech made by Maj. McKinley, which will be sent out in large quantities by the Congressional committee:

"The republican party stands for honest money and the chance to earn it by honest toil." Wm. McKinley.

Every republican newspaper in the country ought to keep this extract standing in its blackest type, during the campaign, and the slips containing it which are being sent out by the Congressional committee should be put before the eyes of every voter.

Republicans expect a red hot fight in Nebraska, but all the information which comes to Washington adds to the belief that the state will go republican. For instance, Mr. W. F. Gurley, of Omaha, who is now in Washington, says: "The fact that Mr. Bryan is a resident of the state is not going to have much influence, as people generally realize that this is a fight for principles rather than persons. Mr. Bryan has always been regarded as more of a populist than a democrat, and on that account I doubt if he will receive the undivided support of the Nebraska democrats. But what cheers us most is the fact that every republican has his coat off and is working with earnestness and confidence for the election of McKinley and Hobart."

It was reported here last week that Mr. Cleveland intended calling an extra session of Congress in September, to act upon a message from him recommending the recognition of the independence of Cuba. It is doubtful, but any way an extra session holds no terrors for republicans.

NO AUTOGRAPHS FOR HER.

Servant Girl Had No Use for the Check
She Received.

A certain family, whose home is in the suburbs of London, have in their employ, says Amusing Journal, a cook, whose ways are invariably so methodical and her cooking so near perfection that, were she to leave her present home, one-half of the mistresses in the district would be eager to secure her services. Never by any chance has dinner been late at the Myrtle villa, or the joint under or over done, neither has any policeman crossed its threshold.
But, tressure that she is, she came near to making a change of residence at the close of her very first month's stay.

On the morning of the day upon which her wages became due, her mistress requested her to step into the study, where her master was waiting to pay her. In a few moments she rushed from the study to the kitchen, where she had left her mistress, and in less time than it takes to narrate had given that astonished lady notice.

"But whatever is the matter, Mary?" inquired her mistress. "What has your master said or done to annoy you?"

"He hasn't said nuthin'," replied Mary, as she flourished a check in her mistress' face, "but he's on'y given me this for a month's slavery. Not me; I ain't no ortygraph collector, I ain't."

The Red Sea Miracle Often Seen in Link River.

It is a well-known fact that at certain times of the year Link river, a stream a mile and a quarter long, which connects the great water systems above and below this point, becomes almost dry, says the Klamath Falls Express.
This state of affairs, however, lasts, as a rule, but a few hours, during which time people have been known to walk across the river, 300 feet wide, without getting their feet wet. The bottom of the river has been dug out in many places by the action of the water, forming large potholes, and when the river becomes dry these holes are filled with trout, which are left stranded. At such times it is a common occurrence to see men and boys knocking the fish on the head with clubs, and in this way secure many a good meal.

There are many traditions regarding this phenomenon among the Indians here, but the real cause of the low water in the river is the action of the wind.
The course of the stream is southeast, and the high winds which prevail in the spring and fall are from the south, and blow up the river. The outlet from the upper lake being small, the force of the wind keeps the water back in the big lake, causing the river to become very low.

A FRENCH INCIDENT.

Cyclist with a Broken Leg Wins a Race.

A fatal cycling accident happened recently at Maison Lafitte. Two young Englishmen, F. Morris, the steeplechase jockey, and F. Davis, first stableman in the employ of L. Robert, the trainer, had arranged a bicycle match of six kilometers from the Maison Lafitte railway bridge to the Croix de Noailles and back. They had almost completed the race when Morris, who was a little ahead, looked back to see how far Davis was behind, and in doing so he let his machine run against the curbstone. The unfortunate rider came to the ground and broke his leg below the knee. Morris, who was following close behind, could not avoid his fallen opponent and was thrown heavily to the ground, where he remained insensible.

Disregarding both his own broken leg and his friend lying motionless on the ground, Morris, in his anxiety to win the race, mounted his bicycle and soon reached the winning post, with one foot on the pedal, the other hanging useless on the opposite side. Davis was then carried home, but he died during the night.

CUT IN TWO.

George Phillip Theis Meets a Horrible Death

On the Railroad Tracks on Butler Street, Saturday Night.

Details of the Accident Unknown, the Remains Being Discovered by a Passerby—Coroner's Inquest to be Held Today.

One of the most horrible railroad accidents ever occurring in this city was that of Saturday night which resulted in the death of Mr. George Phillip Theis, a well known old gentleman 70 years of age.

Shortly after nine o'clock his body was discovered lying on the Butler street trestle between Front and Second streets by Frank Hagan. It lay about fifteen feet west of the Second street sidewalk on the straight leg of the trestle. When discovered the body was drained of blood and cold. The legs were through the trestle between the rails and the head, almost severed, between the iron rail and the heavy timber on the ends of the ties. One arm also was completely severed from the body.

Coroner Willis viewed the remains, after which they were taken to Fuller's undertaking establishment and prepared for burial. The body was so frightfully mangled that many strong men who saw it turned sick with horror.

The exact manner of the killing is not known. It cannot be told how he came to be on the trestle where the body was found nor what train killed him. Both the B. & O. S. W. and the C. & M. crews who passed over the spot Saturday night were ignorant of the accident until the remains were discovered. Coroner Willis will hold an inquest today, when the facts will probably develop.

Mr. Theis' funeral occurred Sunday afternoon at the St. Paul German church and was largely attended. The deceased was a well known figure in Marietta and leaves an estimable family to mourn his shocking end.

A GREAT DINNER.

Because Enjoyed by a Great Quartette—
They Are Still Alive.

The greatest dinner that I ever sat down to, says Watterson in the Courier-Journal, consisted of a leg of mutton, dressed with mustard, a bit of hot wheat bread, and some fresh butter, with half a jug of fine whisky to wash it down. It was in front of New Hope church in the summer of '64. Some one had sent Eustis a leg of mutton.
Some one had sent Yeatman a large pill box of butter. Brugg, Gen. Polk's cook, had some flour. Eustis and Yeat-man invited Gov. Harris and myself.
The governor happened to have a key which fitted Gen. Polk's medicine case.
All of us united in making the roll of a vial of Irish whisky, the general himself being absent, and that was dinner! Glorious dinner!

Praise God, the quartette still survive to tell the tale, which they do whenever they meet and can get an audience. Eustis is in Paris, ambassador; the same cool, self-possessed man in diplomacy he used to be under fire; able, brave and lazy. Harris—touching the eighties—is the dashing, brilliant, impetuous boy he was 32 years ago—and, silver or gold, or neither, I look toward him as I write! Yeatman, obtru-sive only in his courage on the battlefield, lives the life of cultivated leisure and unambitious rusticity which delighted him most when he was both younger and richer than he is, though he still has his ancestral acres.
That was a dinner.

A WOMAN'S HOUR.

A Man's Entire Day Could Not Be Filled
More Completely.

"Please state to the court exactly what you did between eight and nine o'clock on Wednesday morning," said a lawyer, according to the Chicago Chronicle, to a delicate looking little woman on the witness stand.

"Well," she said, after a moment's reflection, "I washed my two children and got them ready for school and sewed a button on Johnny's coat and opened a rent in Nellie's dress. Then I tidied up my sitting-room and made two beds and watered my house plants and glanced over the morning paper.
Then I dusted my parlor and set things to rights in it. I washed some lamp chimneys and combed my baby's hair and sewed a button on one of her little shoes, and then I swept out my front entry and brushed and put away the children's Sunday clothes and wrote a note to Johnny's teacher, asking her to excuse him for not being to school on Friday. Then I fed my canary bird and gave the grocery man an order, and swept off the back porch, and then I sat down and rested for a few minutes before the clock struck nine. That's all."

"All!" said the dazed lawyer. "Excuse me, judge, I must get my breath before I call my next witness."

You and Your Grandfather

Are removed from each other by a span of many years. He traveled in a slow going stage-coach while you take the lightning express or the electric car.
When he was sick he was treated by old fashioned methods and given old-fashioned medicines, but you demand modern ideas in medicine as well as in everything else. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the medicine of to-day. It is prepared by modern methods and to its preparations are brought the skill and knowledge of modern science. Hood's Sarsaparilla acts promptly upon the blood and by making pure, rich blood it cures disease and establishes good health.

AGAIN IN FORCE.

Strike in the Brown Hoisting Company's Works.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 1.—The lockout at the works of the Brown Hoisting and Conveying Machine company's works is again in force. Late Friday the executive committee of the strikers held a meeting and declared the strike on again. The locked out men declare they will give the Brown Co. a fight to a finish now.
There seems to have been a misunderstanding of the terms of settlement when the lockout was declared off Monday. The company declares that it is living up to the text of its agreement, while the men assert that it has on several occasions violated it by hiring new men, while a large number of the old employees of the company were on the books as applicants for their old positions. After the meeting of the executive committee the following statement was issued:

"In consideration of the Brown Co. having violated their contract with the men and state board of arbitration, we, as a body, feel ourselves exempt from all obligations to the company. The demand, as at first presented, will now be strictly adhered to."

The strikers are in an angry mood and trouble is almost certain to come, and the police will now use sterner methods than those recently employed.
F. W. Buckingham, who shot over the heads of a crowd of strikers on Wednesday, was pursued from the works by strikers Friday. They throw stones and he again used his revolver.

Chance for Acquittal.

AKRON, O., Aug. 1.—The attorneys for Romulus Cotell, who is now in the penitentiary under sentence of death for the murder of Alvin N. Stone, believe that they have secured enough new evidence to insure a new trial and final acquittal of their client. Elmer Ellsworth, a convict, who was sent up for five years for being implicated in a blanket and fur robbery, has made a statement that Strong, who was at first arrested for the murder, planned the crime while in the penitentiary. Ellsworth says that Alvin Stone was instrumental in bringing about his and Strong's arrest, and that shortly before Strong's release he planned to wipe out the whole Stone family. He not only confessed his intentions, Ellsworth claimed, but told of the plans he had formed.

Big Suit Settled.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 1.—Judge Carpenter, in Wayne circuit court Friday, entered the petition of Orville W. Owen and other heirs for an accounting by O. W. Potter, of Chicago, the executor of the estate of the late Capt. Eber B.
Ward, and restitution by the widow and her two brothers, it being charged that the four entered into a conspiracy to defraud the other heirs by bankrupting the estate and at the same time enriching themselves by purchasing its assets at a small fraction of their value.
The suit settled involved property valued at $7,000,000.

Was It Caused by the Bicycle?

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—The Staver and Abbott Manufacturing Co. assigned Friday to Henry C. Staver for the benefit of their creditors. The firm is a consolidation of the Abbott Buggy Co. and the H. C. Staver Manufacturing Co. and was supposed to be doing a large business. Assets, $300,000; liabilities, $400,000. General depression in business is given as the cause of failure.

Location of the Sound Money Convention.

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—Indianapolis, Cincinnati and Detroit are bidders for the convention of sound money democrats, and the chances seem to be in favor of the first named city. Chicago would be the unanimous choice were it not for the fact that future reference to the "Chicago convention" might lead to some annoying mistakes.

Two Days in the Water.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 1.—The 11 men who were saved from the German warship Itis which was wrecked during a typhoon on July 2, off Somcheart promontory, province of Shang Tung, clung to wreckage for two days before they reached the shore. The Itis went down in shallow water. She sank stern first and her forepart remained out of water. A heavy sea was running and swept away many men who might otherwise have saved themselves by clinging to the wreck.

Chose the Lashes.

ROME, Ga., Aug. 1.—Tom Evans, a Negro, attempted an assault upon a young lady named Long, 25 miles down the Decatur road, on Thursday last.
Evans was captured and given his choice between being lynched or taking 100 lashes. He chose the lashes.
They were duly given and he was turned loose. Evans started at once for the Alabama line.
